Islands of Pigeon Rock (Kalecik) in Cappadocia, Turkey, are famous for their unique conical shapes and cave openings. The landscape is a result of volcanic activity, with the soft volcanic ash being eroded by wind and water. The region is also known for its hot air balloons, which offer a unique view of the landscape from above. The inset photos show the interior of a cave, the view from a distance, and a person in a hot air balloon basket.
